What does the language evaluator do?

I researched this on Pune Advanced Toastmasters website. The language evaluator will evaluate speeches based on language only as defined by the Language criteria in the International Speech Contest Judge's Guide and Ballot. For details, please review <https://www.toastmasters.org/~media/a26980987c5643bbafb6f9fa367a6f65.ashx>.

Keynote Presentation: Holly K. Fleschler, DTM She did an amazing job! She started out by speaking to her phone and asking the question? "Hey Siri, What's My Glucose?"

A Lifetime Journey Inside Her Diabetes Diagnosis

After a brief stint in Toastmasters in 1993, Holly returned in 2007 and earned her DTM in 2010. Holly is happy when able to share both her Toastmasters experience and Diabetes Experience.

Diagnosed with Type 1 Diabetes in 1961, she has spent the last 60 years learning, adapting and surviving the perils of the disease. She has given lectures at medical schools and hospitals as an expert in Type 1 Diabetes. Tonight, she will share her real life adventures and attitude towards surviving and thriving with this condition and that she did. WOW! Holly did such an inspiring job explaining not just what she goes through, but what everyone else goes through, who has diabetes. She also explained how things have changed over the year. I would definitely recommend Holly to schools to give this speech. How about ALL of you?
